FINE MARKET FOR AMERICANS

Argentina Ranchers Coming to United States to Select Blooded Stock.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 8.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The removal of the interdiction upon the importation of American cattle into Argentina opens to American breeders a most promising market that has been monopolized by British breeders heretofore. Already some of the Argentine ranchers, as the owners of great ranches are called, have taken interest in the possibilities of the new conditions, and as a pioneer in the trade, Senor Celendino Pereda, one of the most prominent of the Argentine ranchmen, has gone to the United States to select bulls and other blooded stock for his vast estates. In view of the phenomenal advance in the prices for live stock in the Argentine and the probability that they may reach still greater heights, particularly if the European war continues, it is assumed that the estancia owners who seek cattle in the United States will be prepared to pay well for choice stock.

The cattle show at Palermo, which is an annual fixture and which is considered an economic barometer of prosperity in the republic has just closed with results that are far more encouraging than could have been expected. It made plain the fact that in whatever other ways the country might be suffering depression, its basic industry—cattle grazing—prospered as never before.

The Argentine has suffered disturbance as a result of the war, and during the past two years the country has been passing through what is called here a "crisis of progress"—the result of lavish expenditure of borrowed capital in national and provincial public works. But in the face of these adverse conditions, there is the outstanding significant fact that a single champion Durham bull for instance, has just sold at auction for $60,000 paper (the Argentine paper dollar being equivalent to about 42 cents gold).

CIVILIZATION TOO STRENUOUS FOR ISHI, LAST BARBARIAN

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Ishi, the Southern Yana Indian, said to be the last of his tribe, who three years ago was transferred from barbarism to civilization and became the study of scientists, is to return to his native hills because he is ill. Scientists have applauded. The applause continued until he saved his life.

TURKISH ROAD IS DYNAMITED

British Lieutenant, Single-Handed, Blows Up a Brick Culvert.

London, Oct. 8, 5:55 p. m.—How a Lieutenant O'Day Hughes, attached to a British submarine operating in the Sea of Marmora, swam from the craft, pushing ahead of him a raft bearing explosives, with which he made a breach in the Turkish railway skirting the beach, is related in an official report given out here tonight. This statement, chronicling perhaps the strangest experience that has befallen any man during this war, says:

"His weapons consisted of an automatic service pistol and a sharpened bayonet. He also carried an electric torch and a whistle. The cliffs proved unscalable at the first point of landing. He therefore relaunched his raft until a less precipitous spot was reached. * * * and after a stiff climb and a considerable march he reached the railway."

Sighting a viaduct, continues the statement, he planned to destroy that but abandoned the idea because of the presence of enemy workmen. He then selected a brick culvert, under which he placed a charge of explosives and lighted a fuse. He effected his escape by running a mile down the railway, and plunged into the sea just as the explosive went off. Debris was scattered near him, indicating that the explosion was effective.

Having blown his whistle to summon the submarine, the lieutenant swam out to sea. However, on sighting the submarine he mistook it for a group of Turkish rowboats, whereupon he swam toward shore and began to ascend the cliff in hope of hiding. He then discovered his mistake and again entered the water. Subsequently he was rescued by the submarine when he was on the verge of exhaustion.

Salt Lake, Oct. 9.—Lieutenant Guy O'Day Hughes is a Salt Lake boy. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Hughes and is 25 years of age. His parents sent him to England about fifteen years ago to be educated. They remained in Salt Lake for some years and then went to England, where they now live. He has been in the royal navy several years and recently became connected with the submarine service.

Dr. D. Moore Lindsay of this city, whose son is a lieutenant in the English army took young Hughes to England. Mrs. John W. Hughes of Salt Lake is a sister-in-law of Dr. Samuel Hughes.

FRENCH PRISONER HELD IN FORTRESS

Berlin, Oct. 8, via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J.—Lieutenant Jacques Del Casso, son of the French foreign minister, who is a prisoner of war at Halle, has been sentenced to detention for one year in the fortress for having spoken abusively of Germany and declined to obey orders," says the Overseas News Agency.

"A soldier in the Tyrol reports that it will be necessary to revise geographical statistics of the Alps, since at least ten feet has been cut off the top of Monte Viola by Austrian artillery."

"Baron Von Wangenheim, a lieutenant of the Uhlans, who is well known on the turf, has died on the battlefield in Russia."

PRESIDENT AND FIANCEE CHEERED

New York, Oct. 8.—President Wilson and his fiancée, Mrs. Norman Galt, came to New York today for a brief visit to the president's closest personal friend, Colonel E. M. House. From the time of their arrival this afternoon until late tonight they were New York's chief objects of interest, and each time they appeared in public they were followed by thousands.

For the first time since he became president, Mr. Wilson gave way as a center of attraction to another. The people showed anxiety to see him, but their eyes were centered on the woman, who, within the next two months, is to become the "first lady of the land."

Both the president and Mrs. Galt were evidently pleased by the attention accorded them. They were slightly shy on their first appearance in public as an engaged couple, but acknowledged applause with smiles. They made no attempt to hide themselves and every time they appeared in public they were side by side. The president gave himself up for the time being to entertaining his fiancée. He was very happy and jovial throughout the day, and his usually stern face was constantly wreathed in smiles.

Philadelphia Today. The program of the couple included a long automobile ride through the parks, a dinner party this evening at the home of Colonel and Mrs. House and a theatre party tonight. Tomorrow they leave at 11 o'clock for Philadelphia, where they plan to witness the second game of the world series baseball championship. Immediately after that they will go to Washington on a special train.

At the theatre tonight "Grumpy" was the play, but the president and Mrs. Galt were easily the stars of the evening. As they entered the theatre the entire audience arose and applauded. The applause continued until the president, Mrs. Galt and Miss Bones appeared. Their box and were seated.

Several hundred persons were gathered at the Pennsylvania station when the couple arrived. They were accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Bolling, Mrs. Galt's mother; Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin; Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Carey T. Grayson, U. S. N. the president's physician and naval aid. An unusually large number of secret service men, headed by Chief Flynn, was with them.

TEXAS POET HERE ON A TRIP THROUGH THE STATE

Oliver Allstorn, the poet Texas, who left Houston, Aug. 9, in an auto bound for San Francisco and the fair, is in Ogden with a cartoonist of the Houston Chronicle, writing up this part of Utah.

Mr. Allstorn is an author of five volumes of verse. He wrote the state song of Texas and the municipal song of Houston.

Mr. Allstorn's book of poems is to be handled by The Standard at Christmas time, mention of which will be made at a later date.

Oliver Allstorn.

One of the author's best known poems, entitled "Bring the Roses When I Die," follows:

You bring the roses while I live
And place them in my hand;
You could not wait until my soul
Should fall to understand;
And I am glad you did not wait
Till I lay in my bier,
For I so much prefer the flowers
While I am living here.

And I am grateful for the gift—
As grateful as can be—
Though, now and then, one solemn thought
Falls like a pall o'er me.

I say, if you should bring no flower
When I am cold in clay,
Pray tell me, should you so forget
What will my neighbors say?

Malone, collector of the port of New York, were at the station to greet the president and his party, and hurried them into a limousine. The crowd cheered and applauded and pushed forward for a chance to see the future Mrs. Wilson. She beamed upon the crowd and the president looked at her and smiled.

"They are applauding you," he said. Along streets where everybody seemed to recognize the couple in the automobile, the presidential party was driven to the hotel, where Mrs. Galt, Mrs. Bolling and Dr. Grayson spent the night. The president was then driven to Colonel House's apartment on East Fifty-third street.

After a brief interval the president and Dr. Grayson rode in the car and they were easily recognized. The president called at Mrs. Galt's hotel for her. As the party left the hotel they were held up a few minutes by a large corps of photographers. The president and Mrs. Galt sat smilingly, side by side, as their pictures were snapped.

FAILED TO PAY FOR HIS DINNER

For obtaining a meal at a Chinese restaurant on lower Twenty-fifth street and refusing to pay for it, Ed. Love was sentenced by the municipal court judge this morning to serve five days in jail.

The charge against J. McGlone, alleged to have been implicated in the same offense, was dismissed, it being learned that Love had invited him into the restaurant to eat. The two were arrested last Tuesday by Officers Mangel and Hearn.

Fred Comoliti, arrested at 12:25 a. m. today by Patrolman Wooten, at the Palace restaurant for a similar offense, had his case taken under advisement.

Lewis Froese, W. F. Crosswhite, George Mack, Dick Jones and George Robinson, plain drunks, were given suspended sentences. J. E. Smith, arrested by Patrolmen Wooten and Blackburn at 1 a. m. today on lower Twenty-fifth street, had his case taken under advisement.

RAILROAD MEN BACK FROM COAST

C. L. McFaul, district passenger agent, and M. D. Shortz, commercial agent of the Southern Pacific, returned yesterday from California, for which point they went last Monday in charge of the Aetna Life Insurance movement of five special trains, to San Francisco. After visiting with local traffic officials for a few hours, Mr. McFaul continued on to his Salt Lake headquarters and Mr. Shortz resumed his work at the local Southern Pacific uptown ticket office. They reported having had a fine trip with the excursionists, who were well pleased with the service given by the Southern Pacific.

Buster Brown and His Funny Dog, Tige, at Alhambra, Monday

Here's news for the kiddies, and the big folks too.

Buster Brown and his dog Tige—the inimitable Buster in the flesh, and Tige of the comic capers as live as ever a live dog was, will be at the Alhambra-Orpheum Monday afternoon to hold a reception to the whole of Ogden town.

It is not a motion picture Buster is coming in, but Buster himself, lifted out from the Sunday comics and introduced as the original Buster Brown. The same about Tige. Originally it was announced that Buster and Tige would be at McCune-Foulger's window on Washington street, but later information was that Buster and Tige have a full hour's entertainment to offer, necessitating a large stage and special scenery. Hence the attraction has been transferred to the Alhambra at no advance in prices.

This novelty will be given at four o'clock sharp, Monday afternoon. The act will last an hour. It will follow the Alhambra-Orpheum picture program, which will include John Mason and Hazel Dawn in "The Fatal Card," and the Fashion Show and Brigham City Peach Day pictures which will be shown for the first time Sunday and Monday. All school children registered in the public schools, will be admitted for five cents.

Monday the Alhambra will open at one o'clock instead of two. Two complete shows will be given. Buster and Tige appearing at the close of the second show—Advertisement.

WAR GAME IN BOSTON HARBOR

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—The harbor forts were carefully manned today for a final desperate effort to prevent the capture of the port by the "enemy" fleet in the war game which has been in progress for two days. The invaders were subject to much danger from mine fields, which the umpires reported had not been destroyed or removed.

DEVELOP FACILITIES MAKING POWDER FOR AMERICA'S GUNS

Washington, Oct. 8.—Secretary Daniels announced today that within a year the navy would have facilities for manufacturing all powder needed for average use and reserve. The big plant at Indian Head, Md., is being developed so as to meet all the navy's demands if necessary, although the policy of purchasing part of the annual supply from private concerns probably will be continued.

A French surgeon claims to have invented a method of planting eyebrows in the public schools, will be admitted for five cents.
